TEACHER DIES OF MALPRACTICE Miss Lucy D. Meyer, a teacher in the Allen street public school and the daughter of Dr. F. H. Meyer, of 45 Morton street, died at her home at 8:30 o'clock Monday morning as the result of a criminal operation. In spite of the request of her father, the police and the family physician, the young woman died without naming the man who was responsible for her condition or the parson who had performed the operation. Coroner Fitzpatrick said Monday night that neither he nor the police had any-

Miss Meyer had lived with her father and her step-mother in the Morton street house for about twelve years, and the family was well known and highly respected in the neighborhood. Miss Meyer was graduated from the Normal College about four years ago and since then had taught in the public schools. She was 24 years old. She became so seriously ill on Friday that her father | called in the family physician, Dr. William L. Harding, of 235 west Eleventh street. Dr. Harding at once saw what nad caused the girl's illness and urged her to confess and o name the doctor or midwife of whom she had been for treatment. M s Meyer refused, though Dr. Hard ing threatened to report the case to the police. He did report the case to the police of Charles street station on Sunday and detectives were assigned to investigate it but they could learn nothcoroner's Physician Donlin made an autopsy confirmed Dr. Harding's suspicion. "I though at first," said Dr. Donlin afterward, "that the girl might have used drugs, but my autopsy proceeded unmittable actioners that revealed unmistakable evidence that she had been operated on."

Dr. Harding said: "Miss Meyer re-fused point blank to name anyone. "Nobody but myself is to blame for this. I have taken drugs, doctor, that's all." Threats to tell her All that I could get her to say was "Nobody but myself is to blame for this. I have taken drugs, doctor, that's all." Threats to tell her tather and the police did not move her in the least. I did tell the police on Sunday because I knew then that there was absolutely no hepe that the tell her my him to cough Cure." "An attack of pneumonia l father and the police did not move her in the least. I did tell he police on Sunday because I knew of her living. We protect our patients as long as it is possible, but when death is inevitable, a physician must consider himself. I told Dr. Meyer, too, and until he learned it from me, I do not think that he had any suspicion of the I have known him and his daughter for ten years." Coroner Fitzpatrick, who was present at the autopsy and who will hold an inquest la'er, said Monday right: "The woman made a statement which I don't want to make public, but I don't mind admiting that it is absolutely worthless so far as evidence is concerned. She did not accuse any body and we do not suspect anybody. She admitted to Dr. Harding that there was a man in the case, but she wouldn't say who he was or how long she had known him."-[New York Sun.

EAGLE ATTACKS A CHILD.-From Gurlevville, near Mansfield, Conn., comes a remarkable story that is vouch ed for as true in every particular. A tour-year-old child of a German family named Gerlach was playing with companions, when a big eagle swooped down and struck its talons into the child, lifting the little one off its feet The child's playmates seized cluts and attacked the bird until it let go and flew away. A hunt has been instituted, eagle has so far not been brought down. Representative Main, of Stonington, Conn., appeared before the legislature two years ago, and ask-ed for the repeal of the law preventing the killing of eagles. He said at that time that eagles carried off sheep, turkeys and geese. The law was not repealed.
